Dear Parents

Sai Ram!

ETS (Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey), in coordination with Learning Links Foundation (ETS India Resource center) is conducting research on innovative tasks for assessing English language proficiency delivered online to better understand how these new tasks work and how their design can be improved. We would like students of classes IX- XII (session 2020 -21) to participate in this research study, which is optional and free of cost.

As you must be aware TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) is a standardized test to measure the English language ability of non-native speakers wishing to enroll in English-speaking universities in the USA and other countries as well. Your contribution to this research work will enable ETS to update the TOEFL.

Students will be able to participate in the session at home, using their own computers.

The session will be remotely proctored.

- During the session, students will engage in a variety of English language tasks online, including listening, reading, speaking, and writing.
- At the end of the session, students will be asked to record a short video.
- Students will be able to see the percentage of questions they answered correctly on the listening and reading sections. (Note. Students will not receive score information on the speaking and writing sections as their spoken and written performances will need to be scored by human raters, and given the large-scale global data collection effort, it is difficult to predict when speaking and writing scores will be available.)
- The whole session will take about 2.5 hours.
- The study is being conducted from 15th February to 30th April, 2021.

Rewards

- Participating students will receive a reward equivalent to $30USD upon completion of the session. Please note that if a student does not make a good faith effort, they will not be rewarded.

* Participant will get 30USD in the month of Jun – July 2021, through NEFT.
